

Sentence Lifting

OCR2 L-5 Comp. Test

3. The neighbors protect the deer because the animal control officer was about to kill the deer but the neighbors told the animal control officer not to and he didn't.

4. The words that tell us about the city's sounds in this story.

Linking to the Concepts

The lessons that can be learned from reading a story are if you work together you have a better chance of succeeding.

The lessons that can be learned about working together is that you'll succeed easier and you'll know each other better. Also, you'll have time to forgive each other which will help you become friends.

The lesson of helping others is one of the lessons you may learn in this story. The lesson of caring is another lesson of working together in this story. Those are all the lessons I am telling you about in this story.

Personal Response

If I found a wild animal that needed rescuing I would definitely tell the people in my neighborhood that we can't kill it. If they need rescuing and they were a wild animal they would not like it if someone just killed them. Then tell my mom that we should call someone that will not kill them and make sure they are okay until the people we called came.

After reading this story if I saw an animal that needed rescuing I would call the animal shelter or animal safety organization.